Give Me Words

"The Lord God has given me the tongue of those who are taught, that I may know how to sustain with a word him that is weary." Isaiah 50:4

Words, words, words. They often swirl about in my head like an army that has been routed. Oh, that God would make them nimble and faithful soldiers . . . ready to march at my command.

GIVE ME WORDS OF CHEER. For many have stumbled on the road, and we are discouraged. Maybe a single glistening word can part the clouds and warm the weary. So give me words that are brightly polished and full of hope; words with a lilt that know how to march in lively, rhythmical cadence.

GIVE ME WORDS OF WARNING. For some do not see the danger along the road. Should I not speak of the grief that awaits, and what others have found beyond the gate? With proper words at my beck and call, I can avert misery and spare pain. Oh, give me words of warning.

GIVE ME WORDS OF COUNSEL. I crave no unmeaning torrent of words. But give me wise and prudent words that issue out of knowledge and experience. Spare me the words that have only sound, but no sense. I want to put men on their feet.

GIVE ME WORDS OF REPROOF. I want brave words that are not afraid to march into combat. But let them never be missiles of destruction. If they must hurt, let them be the faithful wounds of a friend. And may they ever be spoken in meekness.

GIVE ME WORDS OF COMFORT. And let them be suitable, timely, wise and helpful. I want words that are not ashamed to weep, and are willing to serve as ambassadors of healing. And may they ever be spoken "in season."

LORD, GIVE ME WORDS!
